

FAMILY EDUCATION RIGHTS AND PRIVACY ACT (FERPA)

New College of Florida complies with the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (<https://www.ncf.edu/departments/registrar/transcripts-records/>) (FERPA) of 1974, as amended, which gives students the right to:

1. Review and inspect their education records.
2. Request the amendment of education records that the student believes are inaccurate or misleading.
3. Consent to disclosures of personally identifiable information contained in their education records, except to the extent that FERPA authorizes disclosures without consent.
4. File a complaint with the U.S. Department of Education concerning alleged failures by New College to comply with the requirements of FERPA.

Further information about the College's policy with respect to the privacy of student records may be obtained from the Office of the Registrar. FERPA permits the release of directory information by NCF. Directory information includes a student's name, dates of attendance and enrollment status, date of graduation, degrees and honors awarded, field of study, participation in officially recognized sports activities, and weight, height and images of athletes. In addition, FERPA permits the release of student records to education officials under prescribed circumstances. These include faculty and other NCF staff with legitimate educational interests, and officials of other schools in which the student is enrolled or seeks to enroll.

If students do not wish their directory information to be released, they should notify the Office of the Registrar (<https://www.ncf.edu/departments/registrar/transcripts-records/>).
